Title The Development Of Professional English Speaking Skills Of The First Year

Nakhorn Ratchasima Rajabhat University Students Through A Complete Package Of

Speaking Skills Training

Abstract

(The purposes of this study were to (1)study English speaking problems of the first year NRRU students, (2) construct an English package for students to communicate with foreigners, and (3) develop English speaking skills of the first year NRRU students trained by the complete English package.

Samples consisted of 30 students in the first year of bachelor degree level in the first semester of academic year 2008 at Nakhon Ratchasima Rajabhat University, Nakhon Ratchasima Rajabhat Province selected by the purposive random sampling technique. Twelve weeks were spent on this research. The instruments were (1) the questionnaire related to students' problems about the English instruction, (2) class observation form, (3) semi-structured interview form, (4) teaching notes, (5) speaking criteria form, and (6) teaching materials. The data were analyzed and interpreted statistically in terms of the t-test, the mean score (x), and the standard deviation (S.D).

The results of the study showed that after having been exposed to the complete English package of speaking skills training, most students' achievement tests and speaking skills developed satisfactorily.
